

EDITORIAL

Introductory Editorial

Garry Walsh

Reader in Inflammation and Immunity, University of Aberdeen Scotland, United Kingdom.

Clinical Medicine Reviews in Women's Health 2009;1 1-2.

This article is from <http://www.cm-reviews.com>.

© Clinical Medicine Reviews. All rights reserved. No unauthorized use permitted. See our website for further details.

I am pleased to announce the launch of Clinical Medicine Reviews in Womens' Health, a new journal published by Clinical Medicine Reviews.

Clinical Medicine Reviews in Womens' Health is an international peer reviewed journal which considers manuscripts on all aspects of the diagnosis, management and prevention of disorders specific to women, in addition to related genetic, pathophysiological and epidemiological topics.

Clinical Medicine Reviews in Womens' Health is published by Clinical Medicine Reviews, a new publisher of journals in the clinical medicine area. Clinical Medicine Reviews aims to become a provider of timely and highly reliable research in the area of women's health. It follows that rigorous editorial standards are applied to ensure that information provided to readers meets our high editorial standards. Articles will follow a consistent format so that the visual impact will be high and equal to that of the best hard-copy publications.

We expect to soon publish articles on topics including:

- Management of Ovarian Cancer and Soft Tissue Sarcoma: focus on Trabectedin
- Teriparatide: Its use in the treatment of Osteoporosis
- Lutropin alfa: a review of its use in infertility and reproductive health