EDITOR'S NOTE

This issue of JPT offers a diverse selection of materials. We are especially pleased to feature Joseph Mosso's description of his program to initiate medical students into the wonders of community pharmacy. Surely, the recent years of clinical proximity of medical and pharmacy students in the hospital will yield interprofessional dividends for years to come. Exposure of medical students to the drugstore, however, is a rarity indeed. It is just such innovative thinking that made Mr. Mosso's tenure as NARD President a special year for that organization. It is unfortunate that those of us who teach for a living so infrequently have an opportunity to hear from those who teach just because they want to.
